Washington Monument is a white marble Doric column, 164 feet high, rising from a base 50 feet square and 24 feet high. The shaft is surmounted by a figure of Washington (by Causisi) 16 feet in height, and weighs 16½ tons. The corner stone was laid July 4th, 1815, and the monument was completed November 25th, 1829. A winding stairway, in the interior, leads to a parapet that commands a fine view of the surroundings.
